Profile

I am a hard working, creative and driven young person who strives to complete any task given with 100% effort. I am an excellent listener, have good communication skills and I am confident with new clients. I can use new technology well and I am a fast learner. I am good at working under pressure very punctual, I am able to manage my time very well and can interact well with colleagues. I am great working independently and as a team. I possess skills for web development and design such as HTML and CSS that makes me equipped enough to design, create and develop a website or user interface. I am also skilled in the use of Sketch, Illustrator and Photoshop.

Interests

My interests include drawing, painting and being all around creative! I also have a passion for tv and music which I go to when I'm not working away at something. I have just recently got into photography as well and am progressing my skills everyday!
